To whom it may concern

I am writing this letter to report the successful completion of a training program of Dr. Anirban Guha at the Department of Geosciences, Tel Aviv University, Israel, during the 3 week period 21 May 2016 to 10 June 2016. The program was among the categories of Teaching-Learning-Evaluation Technology or a Faculty Development program. Dr. Guha was funded by the program sponsoring bilateral scientist exchanges between the Indian National Science Academy (INSA), and the Israel Academy of Sciences and Humanities.

The main goal of the visit of Dr. Guha was to learn how to use and run the LWPC computer model used for simulating the propagation of very low frequency (VLF) electromagnetic waves in the atmosphere. We had some very interesting discussions and interactions with Dr. Guha, and he successfully completed the training and also actively interacted with your research group. He also helped us physically upgrade one of our field sites at Mitzpe Ramon, in the Negev Desert.

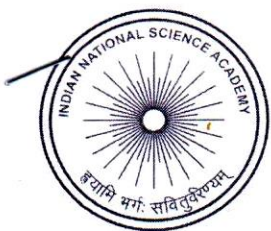

Although short, the visit was very fruitful for both sides, and we hope for future collaborations between the groups.

We wish Dr. Guha the best of luck in his future research endeavors.

Sincerely,

Prof. Colin Price
