The speakers included Salem Ahmed Barbhuiya, Senior Project Consultant, Ernst and Young LLP; Nitin Singh, Project Manager, Ernst and Young LLP; and Prof. Shaon Ray Chaudhuri, IQAC Director, Tripura University. The program was attended by faculty members, research scholars, and students.

Chaitali Chanda welcomed the guests on the dais. Dr. Anirban Chandra spoke about the importance of entrepreneurship in India. He highlighted the initiatives taken by Central and State governments to promote entrepreneurship among young Indians. He gave examples such as the export of food items from Kota to European countries and the involvement of local entrepreneurs in Tripura who engaged in small-scale businesses like producing homemade food items and handloom and handicraft products, which were showcased and sold at events like the Saras Mela organized by the Government of Tripura.

Mr. Nitin Singh started by introducing himself and thanking IQAC, Tripura University, for the collaboration. He then began his talk on Entrepreneurship Knowledge, explaining the following: what an entrepreneur was, what an enterprise was, types of business ownership, objectives, and understanding business ventures. He also discussed the definition of a startup according to the Government of India (GOI), the development phases of an enterprise, and the pre-startup phase, among other points. A short business pitching session was held during the program, where three participants shared their business ideas.

Er. Harjeet Nath explained venture funding, business incubators, the importance of savings in business, government startups, angel investors, and other related topics.

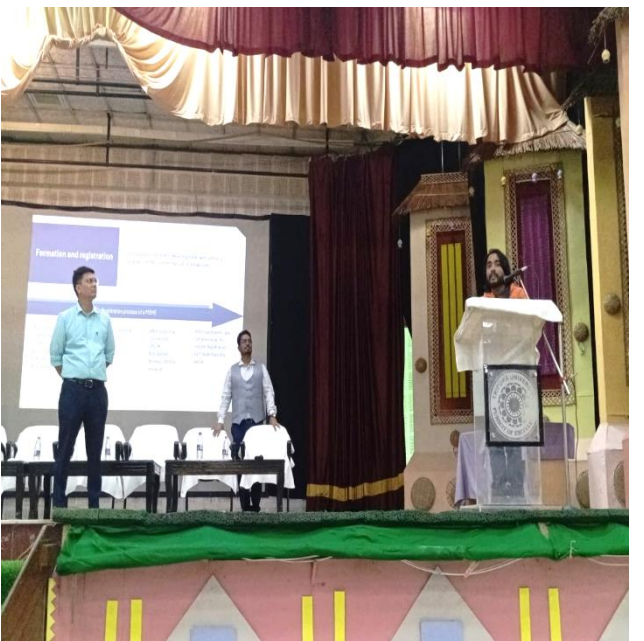

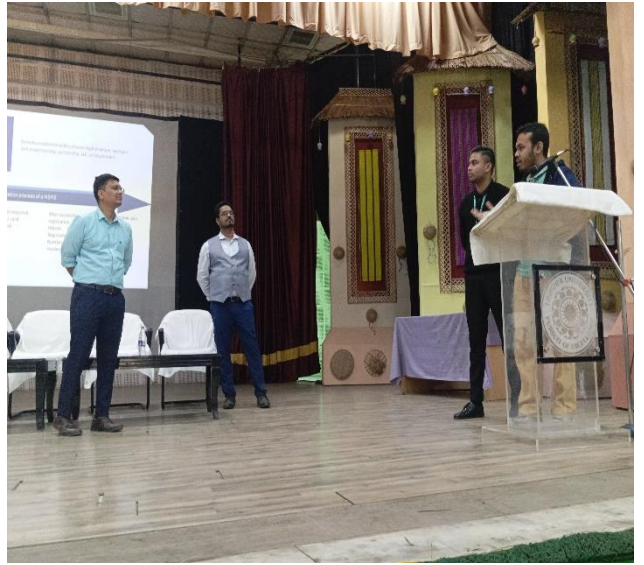

At the end, Prof. Shaon Ray Chaudhuri delivered her vote of thanks and commended the participants for their initiatives in exploring different avenues of business. She also emphasized the importance of providing a framework for ideas. Prof. Shaon Ray Chaudhuri appreciated the active participation of students, expressed her gratitude to Subrata Nandi, the security officer, and acknowledged Dr. Rakshak Kumar, Dr. Anirban Chandra and the team members from the Microbial Technology Lab who successfully organized the program.
