Report of Guest Lecture

5/10/2018

Department of Business Management, Tripura University organized one guest lecture for the students of MBA 1st and 3rd semester on 4.10.2018 at 12 noon onwards. The discussion point for the topic was “India 2030: the contribution of North-East from economic and social perspective”. The discussion was executed by Dr. Gorky Chakraborty, Associate Professor, Institute of Development Studies, Kolkata. He is considered as one of the significant and authoritative persona in socio-economic context of North-East region and a specialist in Land reforms issues related to North-East India. The interaction continued for almost one and half an hour. He identified and elaborated various social and economic issues that can possibly act as opportunities and challenges towards establishment of North-East as the gateway for India towards other parts of the world. Some of the glimpse of the session is provided:

The lecture was ended by the concluding remarks from the Head of the Department, Dr. Debarshi Mukherjee.
